L. LIN WOOD,
Plaintiff-Appellant,

versus

BRAD RAFFENSPERGER, et al.,
Defendants-Appellees.

Appeal from the United States District Court for the Northern District of Georgia

(August 6, 2021)

Before MARTIN, JORDAN, and GRANT, Circuit Judges.

PER CURIAM:

L. Lin Wood, Jr. appeals the district court's dismissal of his lawsuit against various Georgia state election officials. After careful consideration, we affirm the district court's ruling because Wood is without Article III standing to make the claims he asserts in this action.

I

The district court described this case as "the latest in a series of cases associated with Wood that seek to challenge aspects of the 2020 election cycle." On December 18, 2020, Wood, then a registered Georgia voter, sued Brad Raffensperger, Georgia's Secretary of State, along with members of the Georgia State Election Board in their official capacities ("Defendants"). Wood sought declaratory relief and an injunction "halting" Georgia's January 5, 2021, runoff election because he alleged the election was proceeding in a manner contrary to Georgia's election laws and the U.S. Constitution.

Wood alleged that Defendants authorized four unlawful procedures for use in the election: (1) the signature verification process for absentee ballots, (2) the processing of absentee ballots prior to election day, (3) the use of drop boxes for absentee ballots, and (4) the use of Dominion Voting Systems Corporation's voting machines. Based on these allegations, Wood brought three claims. First, he alleged the procedures violated his equal protection and voting rights, as he said he planned to vote in person in the election, and these procedures would dilute his vote and cause his vote to be treated differently. Second, Wood alleged the procedures violated his due process rights because the procedures were "defective and unlawful" and affected the "integrity of the election." Last, he alleged the procedures violated the Guarantee Clause of the Constitution, which says the United States "shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican Form of Government." U.S. Const. Art. IV, § 4. In Wood's view, the procedures he identified violated the Guarantee Clause because they did "not provide for the certainty of a free and fair election."

The district court dismissed Wood's lawsuit for lack of jurisdiction, as the court found Wood did not have Article III standing to sue. With regard to the equal protection and due process claims, the district court found that Wood failed to demonstrate a particularized injury. The court noted other deficiencies for these claims as well. The district court then found that Wood lacked standing to bring his Guarantee Clause claim because the Guarantee Clause makes a guarantee of republican government only to the states and thus does not confer any rights on individuals. This is Wood's appeal.[1]

[1] Two issues arose while this appeal was pending. First, this Court directed the parties to address whether this appeal is moot, and thus whether we lack jurisdiction, "given that the January 5, 2021, election with respect to which Wood seeks relief has already occurred." In response, Wood says the appeal is not moot because the controversy is capable of repetition yet evading review and because he seeks nominal damages. Defendants argue that the appeal is moot because the election has "come and gone" and none of the exceptions to the mootness doctrine applies.

II

On appeal, Wood says the district court erred in dismissing his lawsuit for lack of Article III standing. We review de novo whether a plaintiff has Article III standing. See Wood v. Raffensperger, 981 F.3d 1307, 1313–16 (11th Cir. 2020). To show he has standing, a plaintiff must demonstrate he suffered an injury in fact that is fairly traceable to the defendant's actions and likely to be redressed by a favorable decision. Id. at 1314 (citing Jacobson v. Fla. Sec'y of State, 974 F.3d 1236, 1245 (11th Cir. 2020)). An injury in fact is one that is concrete, particularized, and either actual or imminent. Id. (citing Trichell v. Midland Credit Mgmt., Inc., 964 F.3d 990, 996 (11th Cir. 2020)). The burden is on the plaintiff to demonstrate these requirements for each claim. See JW ex rel. Williams v. Birmingham Bd. of Educ., 904 F.3d 1248, 1264 (11th Cir. 2018) (per curiam). Here, we look to the

---

Because we hold Wood lacked Article III standing to sue, we need not reach the question of whether the appeal is moot. See Sinochem Int'l Co. v. Malay. Int'l Shipping Corp., 549 U.S. 422, 431, 127 S. Ct. 1184, 1191 (2007) ("[T]here is no mandatory 'sequencing of jurisdictional issues.'").

Second, Defendants moved for leave to supplement the appellate record with material showing Wood did not actually vote in the election, which Defendants say "establishes beyond any doubt" that Wood lacked Article III standing and that the appeal is moot. Wood, in turn, moved to strike Defendants' motion to supplement the appellate record. Because we conclude Wood lacked standing without reference to any supplemental material, Defendants' motion to supplement the appellate record and Wood's motion to strike are DENIED AS MOOT.

particularized-injury requirement. A particularized injury is one that "affects the plaintiff in a personal and individual way." Wood, 981 F.3d at 1314 (quoting Spokeo, Inc. v. Robins, 578 U.S. __, 136 S. Ct. 1540, 1548 (2016)) (quotation marks omitted and alteration adopted). That means the plaintiff must show more than a generalized grievance that is "undifferentiated and common to all members of the public." Id. at 1314 (quotation marks omitted).

In a recent case involving similar claims brought by Wood, our Court applied this framework to hold that Wood lacked standing to bring his claims. In that case, Wood alleged that Georgia's absentee-ballot and recount procedures used in the 2020 election violated his constitutional rights. Id. at 1310. He therefore sought to "enjoin certification of the general election results, to secure a new recount under different rules, and to establish new rules for an upcoming runoff election." Id. The Court noted that Wood's alleged "injury to the right 'to require that the government be administered according to the law'" was an insufficient generalized grievance. Id. at 1314 (quoting Chiles v. Thornburgh, 865 F.2d 1197, 1205–06 (11th Cir. 1989)). And although Wood argued that "the inclusion of unlawfully processed absentee ballots diluted the weight of his vote" and that Georgia "valued" and "favored" in-person votes less than absentee votes, the Court held that neither injury was particularized and thus could not support standing. Id. at 1314–15 (alteration adopted). While the Court recognized vote dilution can be a particularized injury, Wood's claim of vote dilution was an insufficient generalized grievance because any vote dilution had a proportional effect on every vote and thus "no single voter [was] specifically disadvantaged." Id. at 1314–15 (quotation marks omitted). And Wood's assertion that Georgia "valued" and "favored" in-person votes less than absentee votes was also only a generalized grievance because any harm did "not affect Wood as an individual—it [was] instead shared identically by the four million or so Georgians who voted in person this November." Id. at 1315 (alteration adopted).

Here, just like in his recent case, Wood lacked Article III standing to bring each of his three claims. Beginning with his equal protection claim, Wood argues he had standing because the challenged procedures diluted in-person votes and valued in-person votes less than absentee votes. However, Wood does not explain how his particular in-person vote, as opposed to all in-person votes more generally, was diluted or disvalued. With respect to his argument that the procedures diluted in-person votes, Wood fails to show the procedures "specifically disadvantaged" his vote rather than impacting the proportional effect of every vote. Id. at 1314–15 (quotation marks omitted). As for his argument that the procedures valued in-person votes less than absentee votes, Wood fails to show that harm "affect[ed] Wood as an individual." Id. at 1315. At most, Wood's asserted injuries were "shared identically by [all] Georgians who voted in person." Id. Wood therefore has shown nothing more than a textbook generalized grievance that is insufficient for Article III standing. See id. at 1314–15. And to the extent Wood argues in passing that he had standing because he believes the procedures were "unlawful," "illegal," and "unconstitutional," the injury to his right that the government be administered according to the law is likewise an insufficient generalized grievance. See id. at 1314; see also, e.g., Lance v. Coffman, 549 U.S. 437, 439–42, 127 S. Ct. 1194, 1196–98 (2007) (per curiam) (collecting cases) (stating an allegation "that the law ... has not been followed" is "precisely the kind of undifferentiated, generalized grievance" that is insufficient to support standing).

Turning to Wood's due process and Guarantee Clause claims, we note that he has failed to raise any arguments in support of his standing to bring those claims. Rather, all of his arguments in support of standing address his equal protection claim. Under our precedent, he has therefore abandoned his due process and Guarantee Clause claims on appeal. See Wilding v. DNC Servs. Corp., 941 F.3d 1116, 1124 n.1 (11th Cir. 2019) (holding that plaintiffs abandoned a claim when they failed to challenge the district court's dismissal of the claim for lack of Article III standing).

But even if his claims were not abandoned, Wood lacked standing to bring them. For his due process claim, Wood alleged the procedures violated his due process rights because the procedures were "defective and unlawful" and affected the "integrity of the election." However, this grievance is common to all members of the public, so it is not particularized and thus not enough for Article III standing. See Wood, 981 F.3d at 1314; see also Dillard v. Chilton Cnty. Comm'n, 495 F.3d 1324, 1333 (11th Cir. 2007) (per curiam) (noting that "an asserted interest in being free of an allegedly illegal electoral system" is not a particularized injury). Wood's Guarantee Clause claim fails for the same reason. He alleged the procedures violated the Guarantee Clause because they did "not provide for the certainty of a free and fair election." This grievance is also common to all members of the public and therefore insufficient for Article III standing. See Wood, 981 F.3d at 1314; see also Democratic Party of Wis. v. Vos, 966 F.3d 581, 589 (7th Cir. 2020) (observing that "the Guarantee Clause makes the guarantee of a republican form of government to the states; the bare language of the Clause does not directly confer any rights on individuals [vis-à-vis] the states" (quoting Largess v. Supreme Jud. Ct. for the State of Mass., 373 F.3d 219, 224 n.5 (1st Cir. 2004) (per curiam) (quotation marks omitted)).

NO. 1:20-cv-5155-TCB

O R D E R

This case comes before the Court on Plaintiff L. Lin Wood, Jr.'s motion for a temporary restraining order ("TRO").

I. Background

This is the latest in a series of cases associated with Wood that seek to challenge aspects of the 2020 election cycle.

Wood is a registered voter in Fulton County who plans to vote in the January 5, 2021 runoff election in-person.[1] He seeks to prevent the runoff from proceeding, arguing that "Defendants are conducting it in a 'Manner' that differs from and conflicts with the election scheme established by the State Legislature." [1] ¶ 9. He contends that three aspects of Defendants' election scheme unconstitutionally contravene the Georgia legislature's prescribed election procedures:

1. signature verification for absentee ballots;[2]

2. processing of absentee ballots prior to January 5;[3] and

---

[1] Wood swears in his amended verification that his averments are true and correct, [5-1] at 1, and the Court will presume the veracity of his statements for purposes of this motion.

[2] Pursuant to a March 6, 2020 settlement agreement, a signature-matching bulletin issued by Defendants requires two-person review of any allegedly mismatched signatures on absentee ballots.

[3] State Election Board ("SEB") Rule 183-1-14-0.9-.15, the "Ballot Processing Rule," permits the processing—but not

3. installation of ballot drop boxes.[4]

Wood argues that the election board's promulgation of these rules—together with the use of Dominion voting machines—violates his rights to equal protection (Count I), due process (Count II), and a republican form of government (Count III).

In his motion for a TRO, Wood seeks the following emergency relief:

1. a declaration that Defendants' senatorial runoff election procedures violate his rights to due process, equal protection, and the guarantee of a republican form of government;

2. a preliminary and permanent injunction prohibiting Defendants' election procedures in the runoff;

3. an order requiring Defendants to "cure their violation"; and

4. an order that Wood have access to absentee ballot mail-in envelopes received and/or processed thus far and access to view and verify the signatures tabulation—of ballots prior to the runoff.

[4] SEB Rule 183-1-14-0.8-.14, the "Drop Box Rule," permits the use of ballot drop boxes for voters to mail absentee ballots.

[2] at 29–30.

Subsequent to Wood's motion for a TRO, the Democratic Party of Georgia and the DSCC moved [13] to intervene as Defendants and dismiss this action. This Court granted [14] the motion to intervene and directed the Clerk to docket the intervenor-Defendants' motion [16] to dismiss.

The state Defendants also moved [26] to dismiss the complaint. They, like the intervenor-Defendants, contend that this Court lacks jurisdiction to hear this case and that Wood fails to state a claim for relief. Both the intervenor-Defendants and the state Defendants also responded [24, 25] in opposition to Wood's motion for a TRO. Wood later replied [33].

For the following reasons, Wood lacks standing to pursue his claims. Accordingly, the Court need not reach the merits of Wood's TRO argument, and this case will be dismissed.

II. Legal Standard

The standards for issuing a temporary restraining order and a preliminary injunction are identical. Windsor v. United States, 379 F. App'x 912, 916–17 (11th Cir. 2010). To obtain either, Wood must demonstrate that (1) his claims have a substantial likelihood of success on the merits; (2) he will suffer irreparable harm in the absence of an injunction; (3) the harm he will suffer in the absence of an injunction would exceed the harm suffered by Defendants if the injunction is issued; and (4) an injunction would not disserve the public interest. Johnson & Johnson Vision Care, Inc. v. 1-800 Contacts, Inc., 299 F.3d 1242, 1246–47 (11th Cir. 2002). The likelihood of success on the merits is generally considered the most important of the four factors. Garcia-Mir v. Meese, 781 F.2d 1450, 1453 (11th Cir. 1986).

A preliminary injunction "is an extraordinary and drastic remedy not to be granted unless the movant clearly established the burden of persuasion as to each of the four prerequisites." Siegel v. LePore, 234 F.3d 1163, 1176 (11th Cir. 2000).

III. Discussion

Article III of the Constitution restricts federal courts' jurisdiction to "Cases" and "Controversies." U.S. CONST. art. III, § 2, cl. 1. "The purpose of the standing requirement is to ensure that the parties have 'such a personal stake in the outcome of the controversy as to assure that concrete adverseness which sharpens the presentation of issues upon which the court so largely depends for illumination of difficult constitutional questions.'" McLain v. Meier, 851 F.2d 1045, 1048 (8th Cir. 1988) (quoting Baker v. Carr, 369 U.S. 186, 204 (1962)).

Wood must have standing "for each claim he seeks to press and for each form of relief that is sought." Town of Chester v. Laroe Estates, Inc., 137 S.

Ct. 1645, 1650 (2017).

Standing requires Wood to show "(1) an injury in fact that (2) is fairly traceable to the challenged action of the defendant and (3) is likely to be redressed by a favorable decision." Jacobson v. Fla. Sec'y of State, 974 F.3d 1236, 1245 (11th Cir. 2020) (citing Lujan v. Defs. of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 560 (1992)).

The injury-in-fact component requires "an invasion of a legally protected interest that is concrete and particularized and actual or imminent, not conjectural or hypothetical." Trichell v. Credit Mgmt., Inc., 964 F.3d 990, 996 (11th Cir. 2020) (internal quotation omitted).

Thus, the injury must "affect [Wood] in a personal and individual way." Lujan, 504 U.S. at 561 n.1. Claims that are "plainly undifferentiated and common to all members of the public" are generalized grievances that do not confer standing. Lance v. Coffman, 549 U.S. 437, 441–42 (2007) (internal citation omitted).

And where, as here, a plaintiff seeks prospective relief to prevent a future injury, the plaintiff must also demonstrate that the future injury is "certainly impending." Susan B. Anthony List v. Driehaus, 573 U.S. 149, 158 (2014) (quotation marks and citation omitted); see also Indep. Party of Fla. v. Sec'y of the State of Fla., 967 F.3d 1277, 1280 (11th Cir. 2020). A "possible future injury" does not confer standing. Clapper v. Amnesty Int'l USA, 568 U.S. 398, 409 (2013).

A. Standing Under the Equal Protection Clause[5]

Throughout much of his complaint, Wood repeats that he suffered an injury from Defendants' purported violations of Georgia law.

However, as this Court has previously pointed out to Wood, "[c]laims premised on allegations that 'the law . . . has not been followed . . . [are] precisely the kind of undifferentiated, generalized grievance about the conduct of government . . . [and] quite different from the sorts of injuries alleged by plaintiffs in voting rights cases where we have found standing.'" Wood, 2020 WL 6817513, at *14–15 (quoting Dillard v. Chilton Cnty. Comm'n, 495 F.3d 1324, 1332–33 (11th

[5] Though the Court will dismiss Wood's claims for lack of standing, his equal protection claim is also barred in part by the doctrine of collateral estoppel because this Court and the Eleventh Circuit recently concluded that Wood lacked standing to bring almost identical equal protection claims. See Wood v. Raffensperger et al., No. 1:20-cv-4651-SDG, 2020 WL 6817513, at *1 (N.D. Ga. Nov. 20, 2020), aff'd, No. 20-14418, 2020 WL 7094866, at *1 (11th Cir. Dec. 5, 2020). And while > dismissal of a complaint for lack of jurisdiction does not adjudicate on the merits so as to make the case res judicata on the substance of the asserted claim, it does adjudicate the court's jurisdiction, and a second complaint cannot command a second consideration of the same jurisdictional claims.

N. Ga. Elec. Membership Corp. v. City of Calhoun, 989 F.2d 429, 433 (11th Cir. 1993).

Cir. 2007)) (alterations in original); see also Bognet v. Sec'y of Commonwealth of Pa., 980 F.3d 336, 355 (3d Cir. 2020) (citing Shipley v. Chi. Bd. of Election Comm'rs, 947 F.3d 1056, 1062 (7th Cir. 2020) ("Violation of state election laws by state officials or other unidentified third parties is not always amenable to a federal constitutional claim.")); Lujan v. Defs. of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 573–74 (1992) ("[R]aising only a generally available grievance about government—claiming only harm to his and every citizen's interest in proper application of the Constitution and laws, and seeking relief that no more directly and tangibly benefits him than it does the public at large—does not state an Article III case or controversy.").

In an attempt to show a particularized injury for purposes of his equal protection claim, Wood alleges that he has standing as a "holder of the fundamental right to vote" because voters have "a legally cognizable interest in preventing 'dilution' of their vote through improper means." [2] ¶ 10 (quoting Baker v. Reg'l High Sch. Dist. No. 5, 520 F.2d 799, 800 n.6 (2d Cir. 1975)).

It is true that vote dilution can be a basis for standing. See United States v. Hays, 515 U.S. 737, 744–45 (1995) ("Where a plaintiff resides in a racially gerrymandered district . . . the plaintiff has been denied equal treatment because of the legislature's reliance on racial criteria.").

However, "vote dilution under the Equal Protection Clause is concerned with votes being weighed differently." Bognet, 980 F.3d at 360 (emphasis added) (citing Rucho v. Common Cause, __ U.S. __, 139 S. Ct. 2484, 2501 (2019) ("'[V]ote dilution' in the one-person, one-vote cases refers to the idea that each vote must carry equal weight.")).

Courts have consistently found that a plaintiff lacks standing where he claims that his vote will be diluted by unlawful or invalid ballots. See Moore v. Circosta, Nos. 1:20cv911, 1:20cv912, __ F. Supp. 3d __, 2020 WL 6063332, at *14 (M.D.N.C. Oct. 14, 2020) ("[T]he notion that a single person's vote will be less valuable as a result of unlawful or invalid ballots being cast is not a concrete and particularized injury in fact necessary for Article III standing."); Donald Trump for President, Inc. v. Cegavske, No. 2:20-cv-1445 JCM (VCF), __ F. Supp. 3d __, 2020 WL 5626974, at *4 (D. Nev. Sept. 18, 2020) ("[P]laintiffs' claims of a substantial risk of vote dilution 'amount to general grievances that cannot support a finding of particularized injury . . . .'"); Martel v. Condos, No. 5:20-cv-131, __ F. Supp. 3d __, 2020 WL 5755289, at *4 (D. Vt. Sept. 16, 2020) (rejecting vote-dilution theory as conferring standing because it constituted a generalized grievance); Paher v. Cegavske, 457 F. Supp. 3d 919, 926–27 (D. Nev. 2020) (pointing out that because "ostensible election fraud may conceivably be raised by any Nevada voter," the plaintiffs' "purported injury of having their votes diluted" does not "state a concrete and particularized injury"); Am. Civil Rights Union v. Martinez-Rivera, 166 F. Supp. 3d 779, 789 (W.D. Tex. 2015).

This is because unlawful or invalid ballots dilute the lawful vote of every Georgia citizen. See Bognet, 980 F.3d at 356 ("'A vote cast by fraud or mailed in by the wrong person through mistake,' or otherwise counted illegally, 'has a mathematical impact on the final tally and thus on the proportional effect of every vote, but no single voter is specifically disadvantaged.'" (quoting Martel, 2020 WL 5755289, at *4)). And where a plaintiff cannot show a "threatened concrete interest of his own," there is no Article III case or controversy. Lujan, 504 U.S. at 573.

Accordingly, Wood's allegation of vote dilution does not demonstrate that he has standing to bring an equal protection claim.

Wood also appears to contend that he will be injured as a member of a class of in-person voters suffering from disparate treatment.

To demonstrate standing based upon a theory of disparate treatment, Wood must show that "a vote cast by a voter in the so-called 'favored' group counts . . . more than the same vote cast by the 'disfavored' group." Bognet, 980 F.3d at 359. He fails to do so.

First, Wood has not shown the existence of a favored or preferred class of voters. Georgia law permits all eligible voters to choose whether to cast an absentee ballot, without reason or explanation. O.C.G.A. § 21- 2-380(b). And "[a]n equal protection claim will not lie by 'conflating all persons not injured into a preferred class receiving better treatment.'"

Bognet, 980 F.3d at 360 (quoting Thornton v. City of St. Helens, 425 F.3d 1158, 1167 (9th Cir. 2005)). Instead, the "relevant prerequisite is unlawful discrimination, not whether the plaintiff is part of a victimized class." Id. (citing Batra v. Bd. of Regents of Univ. of Neb., 79 F.3d 717, 721 (8th Cir. 1996)).

Wood does not show that he suffered from discrimination or other harm as a result of his classification as an in-person voter. The fact that the process for voting by absentee ballot is different from voting in-person does not establish an injury in fact. Courts have sanctioned the use of distinct voting processes for absentee and in-person ballots, acknowledging that "[a]bsentee voting is a fundamentally different process from in-person voting, and is governed by procedures entirely distinct." Am. Civil Liberties Union of N.M. v. Santillanes, 546 F.3d 1313, 1320 (10th Cir. 2008).

And to the extent Wood argues that he will be harmed if his inperson vote counts less as a result of an illegally-cast absentee ballot, the Court reminds him that "a plaintiff lacks standing to complain about his inability to commit crimes because no one has a right to commit a crime." Bognet, 980 F.3d at 362 (quoting Citizen Ctr. v. Gessler, 770 F.3d 900, 910 (10th Cir. 2014)). Accordingly, his theory of disparate treatment does not demonstrate that he suffered an injury in fact.

Even if Wood could demonstrate a particularized injury through either his theory of vote dilution or disparate treatment, his claims are far too conclusive and speculative to satisfy Article III's "concreteness" requirement.

As previously noted, sufficiently pleading a non-speculative future injury requires Wood to show either that the threatened injury is "certainly impending" or that there is a "'substantial risk' that the harm will occur." Susan B. Anthony List, 573 U.S. at 158 (citing Clapper, 568 U.S. at 414 n.5). Allegations that harm is certainly impending or substantially likely must be "based on well-pleaded facts" because courts "do not credit bald assertions that rest on mere supposition." Bognet, 980 F.3d at 362 (citing Finkelman v. NFL, 810 F.3d 187, 201–02 (3d Cir. 2016)).

Here, Wood presumes that a chain of events—including the manipulation of signature-comparison procedures, abuse of ballot drop boxes, intentional mishandling of absentee ballots, and exploitation of Dominion's voting machines—will occur.

However, even taking his statements as true, Wood's allegations show only the "'possibility of future injury' based on a series of events— which falls short of the requirement to establish a concrete injury." Donald J. Trump for President, Inc. v. Boockvar, __ F. Supp. 3d __, 2020 WL 5997680, at *33 (W.D. Pa. Oct. 10, 2020) (rejecting a theory of future harm where "th[e] increased susceptibility to fraud and ballot destruction . . . [is] based solely on a chain of unknown events that may never come to pass"); see also Clapper, 568 U.S. at 409 (concluding that "allegations of possible future injury are not sufficient").

Wood attempts to show that fraud is certain to occur during the runoff by arguing that the November 3 general election was rife with fraud. However, even if that were the case, the alleged presence of harm during the general election does not increase the likelihood of harm during the runoff. See Boockvar, 2020 WL 5997680, at *33 ("It is difficult—and ultimately speculative—to predict future injury from evidence of past injury.").

And claims of election fraud are especially speculative where they rely upon the future activity of independent actors. See id. at *33 (rejecting as speculative claims "that unknown individuals will utilize drop boxes to commit fraud . . . [and] for signature comparison, that fraudsters will submit forged ballots by mail") (citing Clapper, 568 U.S. at 414 (declining to "endorse standing theories that rest on speculation about the decisions of independent actors")). This is even more so the case where a plaintiff speculates that an "independent actor[] [will] make decisions to act unlawfully." Bognet, 980 F.3d at 362 (citing City of L.A. v. Lyons, 461 U.S. 95, 105–06 (1983)).

Here, Wood's theory of harm rests on speculation about the future illegal activity of independent actors. He alleges that use of ballot drop boxes "produces opportunities for political activists to submit fraudulent absentee ballots," [1] ¶ 50 (emphasis added); that enhanced signature review would "ma[k]e it more likely that ballots without matching signatures would be counted," id. ¶ 24 (emphasis added); and that permitting the processing of absentee ballots prior to January 5 will facilitate the counting of "fraudulent mail-in ballots . . . cast in the[] name" of would-be in-person voters," id. ¶ 32. These allegations plainly contemplate only the possibility of future harm and do not conclusively demonstrate a future injury.

Wood's claims regarding ongoing "systemic fraud" through use of the Dominion voting machines fare no better. He hazards that "there is actual harm imminent to [him]" because "Dominion w[as] founded by foreign oligarchs and dictators . . . to make sure [that] Venezuelan dictator Hugo Chavez never lost another election." Id. ¶ 63.

Not only is this allegation astonishingly speculative, but it also presumes that because independent bad actors allegedly fixed the election of a now-deceased Venezuelan president, fraud will recur during Georgia's runoff. Again, past harm does not sufficiently show a risk of future harm to confer standing. Boockvar, 2020 WL 5997680, at *33. Even if Wood's alleged fraudulent events were to ultimately occur, he has not shown more than a possible future injury. This is insufficient to confer standing. See id. at *35.

Thus, Wood's claims are both too generalized and too speculative to demonstrate an injury in fact.

Accordingly, he lacks standing to pursue his equal protection claim, and Count I will be dismissed.[6]

B. Standing Under the Due Process Clause

Although Wood does not argue in his motion for a TRO that he has standing to pursue his due process claim, he contends that Defendants' failure to act in a manner consistent with the Georgia Election Code and use of the Dominion machines "render the election procedures for the runoff so defective and unlawful as to constitute a violation of [his] right to procedural due process." [2] ¶ 80. He also argues that his substantive due process rights will be violated because Defendants' implementation of election procedures in violation of state law "reach the point of patent and fundamental unfairness." Id. ¶ 81.

However, as noted above, these alleged injuries

[6] Although it need not reach the separate elements of traceability and redressability, the Court also points out that standing requires that any injury be "fairly traceable to the challenged action of the defendant, and not the result of the independent action of some third party." Lujan, 504 U.S. at 560. Wood does not allege that Defendants—the Secretary of State and members of the election board— control the election processes which he seeks to enjoin. Accordingly, his alleged injury is not traceable to them and Defendants cannot provide him any redress. See Ga. Republican Party Inc. et al. v. Sec'y of State for the State of Ga. et al., No. 20- 14741, at *6 (11th Cir. Dec. 21, 2020) (affirming dismissal of claims challenging election procedures based on lack of standing where the plaintiffs did not demonstrate either traceability or redressability).

are paradigmatic generalized grievances unconnected to Wood's individual vote. See Lance, 549 U.S. at 440–41; see also Nolles v. State Comm. for Reorg. of Sch. Dists., 524 F.3d 892, 900 (8th Cir. 2008) (concluding that voters lacked standing to pursue substantive due process claim based on alleged violation of right to a free and fair election because they did not demonstrate a particularized injury).

For Wood to demonstrate that he has standing to pursue his due process claims, he would need to show an "individual burden[]" on his right to due process. Wood, 2020 WL 7094866, at *14. He fails to do so. Accordingly, he lacks standing to pursue his due process claim and Count II will be dismissed.

C. Standing Under the Guarantee Clause

Wood also fails to raise the issue of standing under the Guarantee Clause, but in any event, his Guarantee Clause claim is not only nonjusticiable, but he also lacks standing to pursue it.

Article IV, § 4 of the constitution provides that "[t]he United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican Form of Government . . . ." U.S. Const. art. IV, § 4.

The Supreme Court has historically held—point blank—that "the Guarantee Clause does not provide the basis for a justiciable claim." City of Rome v. United States, 446 U.S. 156, 182 n.17 (1980); Baker v. Carr, 369 U.S. at 217–19; Pac. States Tel. & Tel. Co. v.

Oregon, 223 U.S. 118, 147–51 (1912); Luther v. Borden, 48 U.S. 7 (1849). On this basis alone Wood is barred from asserting a claim under the Guarantee Clause.

More recently, the Supreme Court has expressed some doubt that all challenges to the Guarantee Clause are nonjusticiable. See New York v. United States, 505 U.S. 144, 185 (1992); see also Reynolds v. Sims, 377 U.S. 533, 582 (1964) (concluding that "some questions raised under the Guaranty Clause are nonjusticiable") (emphasis added).

However, even if this were one of those elusive justiciable claims, Wood lacks standing to pursue it. "[F]or purposes of the standing inquiry . . . the Guarantee Clause makes the guarantee of a republican form of government to the states; the bare language of the Clause does not directly confer any rights on individuals vis-à-vis the states." Largess v. Supreme Jud. Ct. for the State of Mass., 373 F.3d 219, 224 n.5 (1st Cir. 2004) (per curiam). Accordingly, Count III alleging violation of the Guarantee Clause is due to be dismissed.

IV. Conclusion

Based on the foregoing, the Court lacks jurisdiction to hear this case. Accordingly, Wood's motions [2, 3] are denied, as is his request for a hearing.[7] The Clerk is directed to close this case.

Article 10. Absentee Voting (Refs & Annos)

Ga. Code Ann., § 21-2-386

§ 21-2-386. Ballot safekeeping, certification, rejection, tabulation; challenge for cause; disclosure regarding results

Effective: April 2, 2019
Currentness

(a)(1)(A) The board of registrars or absentee ballot clerk shall keep safely, unopened, and stored in a manner that will prevent tampering and unauthorized access all official absentee ballots received from absentee electors prior to the closing of the polls on the day of the primary or election except as otherwise provided in this subsection.

(B) Upon receipt of each ballot, a registrar or clerk shall write the day and hour of the receipt of the ballot on its envelope. The registrar or clerk shall then compare the identifying information on the oath with the information on file in his or her office, shall compare the signature or mark on the oath with the signature or mark on the absentee elector's voter registration card or the most recent update to such absentee elector's voter registration card and application for absentee ballot or a facsimile of said signature or mark taken from said card or application, and shall, if the information and signature appear to be valid and other identifying information appears to be correct, so certify by signing or initialing his or her name below the voter's oath. Each elector's name so certified shall be listed by the registrar or clerk on the numbered list of absentee voters prepared for his or her precinct.

(C) If the elector has failed to sign the oath, or if the signature does not appear to be valid, or if the elector has failed to furnish required information or information so furnished does not conform with that on file in the registrar's or clerk's office, or if the elector is otherwise found disqualified to vote, the registrar or clerk shall write across the face of the envelope "Rejected," giving the reason therefor. The board of registrars or absentee ballot clerk shall promptly notify the elector of such rejection, a copy of which notification shall be retained in the files of the board of registrars or absentee ballot clerk for at least two years. Such elector shall have until the end of the period for verifying provisional ballots contained in subsection (c) of Code Section 21-2-419 to cure the problem resulting in the rejection of the ballot. The elector may cure a failure to sign the oath, an invalid signature, or missing information by submitting an affidavit to the board of registrars or absentee ballot clerk along with a copy of one of the forms of identification enumerated in subsection (c) of Code Section 21-2-417 before the close of such period. The affidavit shall affirm that the ballot was submitted by the elector, is the elector's ballot, and that the elector is registered and qualified to vote in the primary, election, or runoff in question. If the board of registrars or absentee ballot clerk finds the affidavit and identification to be sufficient, the absentee ballot shall be counted.

(D) An elector who registered to vote by mail, but did not comply with subsection (c) of Code Section 21-2-220, and who votes for the first time in this state by absentee ballot shall include with his or her application for an absentee ballot or in the outer oath envelope of his or her absentee ballot either one of the forms of identification listed in subsection (a) of Code Section 21-2-417 or a copy of a current utility bill, bank statement, government check, paycheck, or other government document that shows the name and address of such elector. If such elector does not provide any of the forms of identification listed in this subparagraph with his or her application for an absentee ballot or with the absentee ballot, such absentee ballot shall be deemed to be a provisional ballot and such ballot shall only be counted if the registrars are able to verify current and valid identification of the elector as provided in this subparagraph within the time period for verifying provisional ballots pursuant to Code Section 21-2-419, The board of registrars or absentee ballot clerk shall promptly notify the elector that such ballot is deemed a provisional ballot and shall provide information on the types of identification needed and how and when such identification is to be submitted to the board of registrars or absentee ballot clerk to verify the ballot.

(E) Three copies of the numbered list of voters shall also be prepared for such rejected absentee electors, giving the name of the elector and the reason for the rejection in each case. Three copies of the numbered list of certified absentee voters and three copies of the numbered list of rejected absentee voters for each precinct shall be turned over to the poll manager in charge of counting the absentee ballots and shall be distributed as required by law for numbered lists of voters.

(F) All absentee ballots returned to the board or absentee ballot clerk after the closing of the polls on the day of the primary or election shall be safely kept unopened by the board or absentee ballot clerk and then transferred to the appropriate clerk for storage for the period of the required for the preservation of ballots used at the primary or election and shall then, without being opened, be destroyed in like manner as the used ballots of the primary or election, The board of registrars or absentee ballot clerk shall promptly notify the elector by first-class mail that the elector's ballot was returned too late to be counted and that the elector will not receive credit for voting in the primary or election. All such late absentee ballots shall be delivered to the appropriate clerk and stored as provided in Code Section 21-2-390.

(G) Notwithstanding any provision of this chapter to the contrary, until the United States Department of Defense notifies the Secretary of State that the Department of Defense has implemented a system of expedited absentee voting for those electors covered by this subparagraph, absentee ballots cast in a primary, election, or runoff by eligible absentee electors who reside outside the county or municipality in which the primary, election, or runoff is held and are members of the armed forces of the United States, members of the merchant marine of the United States, spouses or dependents of members of the armed forces or merchant marine residing with or accompanying such members, or overseas citizens that are postmarked by the date of such primary, election, or runoff and are received within the three-day period following such primary, election, or runoff, if proper in all other respects, shall be valid ballots and shall be counted and included in the certified election results.

(2) After the opening of the polls on the day of the primary, election, or runoff, the registrars or absentee ballot clerks shall be authorized to open the outer envelope on which is printed the oath of the elector in such a manner as not to destroy the oath printed thereon; provided, however, that the registrars or absentee ballot clerk shall not be authorized to remove the contents of such outer envelope or to open the inner envelope marked "Official Absentee Ballot," except as otherwise provided in this Code section. At least three persons who are registrars, deputy registrars, poll workers, or absentee ballot clerks must be present before commencing; and three persons who are registrars, deputy registrars, or absentee ballot clerks shall be present at all times while the outer envelopes are being opened. After opening the outer envelopes, the ballots shall be safely and securely stored until the time for tabulating such ballots.

(3) A county election superintendent may, in his or her discretion, after 7:00 A.M. on the day of the primary, election, or runoff open the inner envelopes in accordance with the procedures prescribed in this subsection and begin tabulating the absentee ballots. If the county election superintendent chooses to open the inner envelopes and begin tabulating such ballots prior to the close of the polls on the day of the primary, election, or runoff, the superintendent shall notify in writing, at least seven days prior to the primary, election, or runoff, the Secretary of State of the superintendents intent to begin the absentee ballot tabulation prior to the close of the polls. The county executive committee or, if there is no organized county executive committee, the state executive committee of each political party and political body having candidates whose names appear on the ballot for such election in such county shall have the right to designate two persons and each independent and nonpartisan candidate whose name appears on the ballot for such election in such county shall have the right to designate one person to act as monitors for such process. In the event that the only issue to be voted upon in an election is a referendum question, the superintendent shall also notify in writing the chief judge of the superior court of the county who shall appoint two electors of the county to monitor such process.

(4) The county election superintendent shall publish a written notice in the superintendent's office of the superintendent's intent to begin the absentee ballot tabulation prior to the close of the polls and publish such notice at least one week prior to the primary, election, or runoff in the legal organ of the county.

(5) The process for opening the inner envelopes of and tabulating absentee ballots on the day of a primary, election, or runoff as provided in this subsection shall be a confidential process to maintain the secrecy of all ballots and to protect the disclosure of any balloting information before 7:00 P.M. on election day. No absentee ballots shall be tabulated before 7:00 A.M. on the day of a primary, election, or runoff.

(6) All persons conducting the tabulation of absentee ballots during the day of a primary, election, or runoff, including the vote review panel required by Code Section 21-2-483, and all monitors and observers shall be sequestered until the time for the closing of the polls. All such persons shall have no contact with the news media; shall have no contact with other persons not involved in monitoring, observing, or conducting the tabulation; shall not use any type of communication device including radios, telephones, and cellular telephones; shall not utilize computers for the purpose of e-mail, instant messaging, or other forms of communication; and shall not communicate any information concerning the tabulation until the time for the closing of the polls; provided, however, that supervisory and technical assistance personnel shall be permitted to enter and leave the area in which the tabulation is being conducted but shall not communicate any information concerning the tabulation to anyone other than the county election superintendent; the staff of the superintendent; those persons conducting, observing, or monitoring the tabulation; and those persons whose technical assistance is needed for the tabulation process to operate.

(7) The absentee ballots shall be tabulated in accordance with the procedures of this chapter for the tabulation of absentee ballots. As such ballots are tabulated, they shall be placed into locked ballot boxes and may be transferred to locked ballot bags, if needed, for security. The persons conducting the tabulation of the absentee ballots shall not cause the tabulating equipment to produce any count, partial or otherwise, of the absentee votes cast until the time for the closing of the polls.

(b) As soon as practicable after 7:00 A.M. on the day of the primary, election, or runoff, in precincts other than those in which optical scanning tabulators are used, a registrar or absentee ballot clerk shall deliver the official absentee ballot of each certified absentee elector, each rejected absentee ballot, applications for such ballots, and copies of the numbered lists of certified and rejected absentee electors to the manager in charge of the absentee ballot precinct of the county or municipality, which shall be located in the precincts containing the county courthouse or polling place designated by the municipal superintendent. In those precincts in which optical scanning tabulators are used, such absentee ballots shall be taken to the tabulation center or other place designated by the superintendent, and the official receiving such absentee ballots shall issue his or her receipt therefor. Except as otherwise provided in this Code section, in no event shall the counting of the ballots begin before the polls close.

(c) Except as otherwise provided in this Code section, after the close of the polls on the day of the primary, election, or runoff, a manager shall then open the outer envelope in such manner as not to destroy the oath printed thereon and shall deposit the inner envelope marked "Official Absentee Ballot" in a ballot box reserved for absentee ballots. In the event that an outer envelope is found to contain an absentee ballot that is not in an inner envelope, the ballot shall be sealed in an inner envelope, initialed and dated by the person sealing the inner envelope. and deposited in the ballot box and counted in the same manner as other absentee ballots, provided that such ballot is otherwise proper. Such manager with two assistant managers, appointed by the superintendent, with such clerks as the manager deems necessary shall count the absentee ballots following the procedures prescribed by this chapter for other ballots, insofar as practicable, and prepare an election return for the county or municipality showing the results of the absentee ballots cast in such county or municipality.

(d) All absentee ballots shall be counted and tabulated in such a manner that returns may be reported by precinct; and separate returns shall be made for each precinct in which absentee ballots were cast showing the results by each precinct in which the electors reside.

(e) If an absentee elector's right to vote has been challenged for cause, a poll officer shall write "Challenged," the elector's name, and the alleged cause of challenge on the outer envelope and shall deposit the ballot in a secure, sealed ballot box; and it shall be counted as other challenged ballots are counted. Where direct recording electronic voting systems are used for absentee balloting and a challenge to an elector's right to vote is made prior to the time that the elector votes, the elector shall vote on a paper or optical scanning ballot and such ballot shall be handled as provided in this subsection, The board of registrars or absentee ballot clerk shall promptly notify the elector of such challenge.

(f) It shall be unlawful at any time prior to the close of the polls for any person to disclose or for any person to receive any information regarding the results of the tabulation of absentee ballots except as expressly provided by law.

RE: Absentee Ballot Signature Review Guidance

Verifying that a voter's signature on his or her absentee ballot matches his or her signature on the absentee ballot application or in the voter registration record is required by Georgia law and is crucial to secure elections. Ensuring that signatures match is even more crucial in this time of increased absentee voting due to the COVID-19 crisis. The purpose of this OEB is to remind you of some recent updates to Georgia law and regulations regarding verifying signatures on absentee ballots and to make you aware of the procedures that should be followed when a signature on an absentee ballot does not match. HB 316, which passed in 2019, modified the absentee ballot laws and the design of the oath envelope. The State Election Board also adopted Rule 183-1-14.13 this year, which addresses how quickly and by what methods electors need to be notified concerning absentee ballot issues. What follows are the procedures that should be followed when the signature on the absentee ballot does not match the voter's signature on his or her application or voter registration record:

> County registrars and absentee ballot clerks are required, upon receipt of each mail-in absentee ballot, to compare the signature or mark of the elector on the mail-in absentee ballot envelope with the signatures or marks in eNet and on the application for the mail-in absentee ballot. If the signature does not appear to be valid, registrars and clerks are required to follow the procedure set forth in O.C.G.A. § 21-2-386(a)(1)(C).
> When reviewing an elector's signature on the mail-in absentee ballot envelope, the registrar or clerk must compare the signature on the mail-in absentee ballot envelope to each signature contained in such elector's voter registration record in eNet and the elector's signature on the application for the mail-in absentee ballot.[1] If the registrar or absentee ballot clerk determines that the voter's signature on the mail-in absentee ballot envelope does not match any of the voter's signatures on file in eNet or on the absentee ballot application, the registrar or absentee ballot clerk must seek review from two other registrars, deputy registrars, or absentee ballot clerks.

A mail-in absentee ballot shall not be rejected unless a majority of the registrars, deputy registrars, or absentee ballot clerks reviewing the signature agree that the signature does not match any of the voter's signatures on file in eNet or on the absentee ballot application. If a determination is made that the elector's signature on the mail-in absentee ballot envelope does not match any of the voter's signatures on file in eNet or on the absentee ballot application, the registrar or absentee ballot clerk shall write the names of the three elections officials who conducted the signature review across the face of the absentee ballot envelope, which shall be in addition to writing "Rejected" and the reason for the rejection as required under OCGA 21-2-386(a)(1)(C). Then, the registrar or absentee ballot clerk shall commence the notification procedure set forth in O.C.G.A. § 21-2-386(a)(1)(C) and State Election Board Rule 183-1-14-.13.
